Rossville-Alvin tax levy, tax rate expected to increase

ROSSVILLE—The cost of education is going up.

At Monday's Rossville-Alvin school board meeting, members set a proposed levy of $1.116 million, based on an equalized assessed valuation of approximately $25 million, said Superintendent Phil Smith.

Last year's levy netted $1,089,556, he said.

The increase represents about a seven percent jump, which means the district must hold a Truth in Taxation hearing.

All increases above five percent must have a hearing, Smith said, adding the hearing for the increase will be at 6:45 p.m. Dec. 15 in the high school library.

Although the proposed increase is seven percent, Smith said the district will probably see a three percent rise in actual funds.

Residents can also expect a higher tax rate, currently at $4.65. "It's hard to say (what the new rate will be) but I'm predicting in the low $4.70s," Smith said.

In other action, the board:

❑received the 10-year Life Safety report which shows approximately $400,000 in major projects, such as roofing. Projects will be done over the next 10 years, Smith said.

❑approved putting the consolidation issue on the March ballot. The district has held ongoing consolidation talks with Bismarck, Potomac and Armstrong schools.

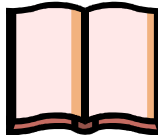

❑named Tony Zarate to the VASE board and
